Bring sparkling sophistication to your Christmas table with the Elegantly Entertaining range by The Last Detail

Create an aura of sophisticated elegance for your Christmas Dinner table this year with a glamorous new range of table accessories.

'Elegantly Entertaining' has been launched by leading party decorations and tableware specialist The Last Detail to cater for the discerning host who is keen to inject some style and glamour into Christmas.

The range includes all the necessary table accessories to create a 'wow' factor from luxury crackers and table games to stylish candle holders, sparkling table gems and beautiful glass place card holders and napkin rings.

The sophisticated crackers each contain a small luxury gift such as a photo frame as well as a pack of trivia containing general knowledge questions. Each cracker is beautifully finished with sumptuous white satin ribbon.

Beautiful hand-faceted glass place card holders advise guests where to sit while a presentation box of table games helps get the conversation flowing. Each silver box contains 40 controversial conversation starting questions such as 'Is torture ever justified?' as well as 40 table talk cards with questions designed to break the ice such as 'Who has most influence on your life?' 40 trivia cards with general knowledge questions complete the box set.

Make sure the table sparkles as much as the conversation by dotting around clear table gems and frosted votive candle holders in shades of silver and grey. Each votive is embellished with miniature crystals or frosting, which when placed next to the hand-faceted table gems, bounce light around the table and create a vibrant and striking shimmer. Both the table gems and votives can be used time and time again to impress dinner party guests.

Sparkling, hand-embellished napkin rings provide an opulent and glamorous finishing touch to your place settings.

To kick off the celebrations, dot some of the elegant cone-shaped posh poppers around the table – each popper contains reams of silver foil streamers which can be scattered across the table once released.

All 'Elegantly Entertaining' products are available to order online at www.thelastdetail.co.uk and can be found under the 'party fun/co-ordinating party ranges' section.
